Dear Parents \ Staff,

Adopt a Brown Bear! Brown Bears are critically endangered (seriously endangered) from threats of habitat loss and the most horrible thing hunting. The population of these beautiful animals is a big concern because there is not that many left. Which is why you should adopt one of these beautiful endangered animals. These Brown Bears are also suffering from human activity in the name of entertainment brown bears are also in circuses performing today and we could help one of these poor Brown Bears that are suffering to death and they could one day become extinct. It would be marvellous if we could help one of the Brown Bears because they are suffering from extreme conditions. To adopt a Brown Bear you are just paying a little £3 pounds per month and believe me on this that money will help one endangered Brown Bear and even though it is just that one bear it will still make a difference. Anyway in the adoption pack you get a free cuddly toy the adoption pack and the Adopt! magazine. The Brown Bears are quite endangered and this is the only possible way to save them. Brown Bears are endangered and really need help. It is important that they go back to their natural habitat. How would you feel if you were treated like this?

☺ I Love the use of the question at the end to finally convince me to adopt!
